Ten weeks ago, I thought of buying a special birthday present for my mother, so I told my dad about my idea. Dad gave me ten dollars a week and I put eight dollars a week into my piggy bank.

Today, I opened my piggy bank and took out fifty dollars from it. I went shopping. I looked around in the mall. I saw a wallet but it cost seventy dollars. I couldn't buy it. Suddenly, I saw a limited edition music book, which was fifty dollars only. I bought one immediately because my mother likes playing different kinds of musical instruments. Her dream job was being a musician when she was young. I hope she will like the present.
